RP-UK science partnership a good fit, says ambassador

By Dennis R. Ramos

MANILA—The science partnership between the Philippines and the United Kingdom is a good fit, says the British ambassador here, Sir John Huxford. He says that the country is a natural fit for science cooperation because of its rich scientific heritage and its growing economy.

During his visit to the Philippines, Sir John Huxford met with President Benigno Aquino III and Vice President Jejomar Binay. He also met with Secretary of Education DepEd Divisoria and other government officials.

18th-century prisons

Before the 18th century, prisons were places of punishment, not reform. They were often filthy, overcrowded, and the inmates were treated with cruelty. The prison system of the 18th century was a reflection of the society of the time, which was based on power and control.

Big Bird's 1st commercial flight a hit

By Benjamin N. Alunan
 Manila, Jan. 11, 2010

By Benjamin N. Alunan

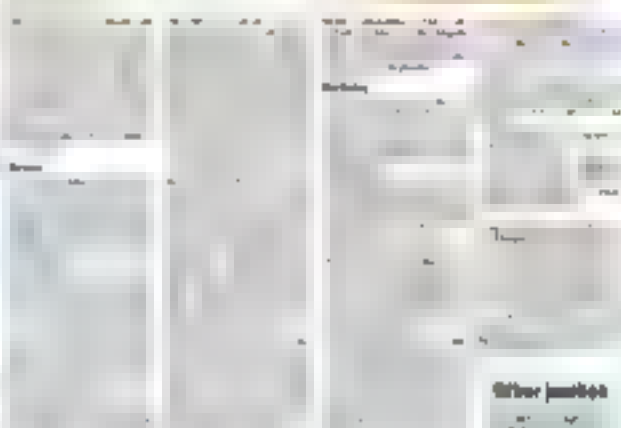

SINGAPORE AIRLINES' Big Bird, the world's largest commercial aircraft, made its first commercial flight from Singapore to Manila on Jan. 10, 2010, and it was a hit.

The Airbus A380-800, which is the world's largest passenger aircraft, was loaded with passengers and cargo. The flight was a success, and the aircraft was praised for its performance.

Villagers hold people power vs dump

By [Name] and [Name]

MANILA (AP) — Villagers in a mountainous area of Mindanao are holding a people power movement against a large dumpsite that has caused environmental damage and health problems.

The villagers, who are mostly farmers and small business owners, have been protesting for several months. They have organized rallies, hunger strikes, and other forms of non-violent resistance.

The dumpsite, which is owned by a private company, has been dumping large amounts of waste, including plastic, metal, and other debris. This has led to the contamination of the surrounding soil and water, which has affected the villagers' livelihoods and health.

The villagers are demanding that the government shut down the dumpsite and take steps to clean up the area. They are also seeking compensation for the damage that has been done to their land and community.

2 GMA 'kabalens' take Erap cue, seek pardon

By [Name]

MANILA (AP) — Two former members of the New People's Army (NPA) have taken the lead of a group of former NPA members who sought a presidential pardon, and are now seeking a similar pardon for themselves.

The two men, who are known as 'kabalens' (former NPA members), have been living in the Philippines for several years. They have been working as small business owners and have been trying to rebuild their lives.

However, they have been facing difficulties because of their past involvement with the NPA. They have been unable to find work and have been living in poverty. They are now seeking a presidential pardon so that they can start a new life.

The two men are not alone. There are many other former NPA members who are also seeking a presidential pardon. They are hoping that the president will grant them a pardon so that they can move on with their lives.

Bata survives scare

By Henry R. Gault

Bata, the world's largest shoe company, survived a scare last week when it was reported that the company was in financial trouble. The company, which is based in the Philippines, had been accused of mismanaging its finances and of being in debt to several banks. However, the company's chairman, Antonio Bata, has denied these allegations and said that the company is in good financial health.

Bata's stock price fell sharply last week when the news of the financial trouble was first reported. However, the company's stock price has since recovered and is now trading at a higher level than it was before the scare. This suggests that investors are confident in the company's ability to overcome its financial difficulties.

BATA'S chief executive officer, Antonio Bata, is seen here last week. The company has denied allegations of financial trouble.

The diagram illustrates the experimental setup for measuring the time delay of a quantum state. It shows a sequence of operations: a Hadamard gate (H), followed by a rotation gate $R_y(\theta)$, then another Hadamard gate (H), and finally a measurement. The input state is $|0\rangle$, and the output state is $|\psi\rangle$. The rotation gate $R_y(\theta)$ is defined as $R_y(\theta) = \exp(-i\theta\sigma_y/2)$. The diagram also shows the evolution of the state through the gates.

Figure 1 is a 3D scatter plot showing the relationship between the number of species (S), the number of individuals (N), and the number of individuals per species (n). The axes are labeled S , N , and n . The plot shows that for a given number of species (S), the number of individuals (N) increases as the number of individuals per species (n) increases. The plot also shows that for a given number of individuals (N), the number of species (S) increases as the number of individuals per species (n) decreases.

Figure 1. Schematic representation of the experimental design. The subjects were divided into two groups: the control group and the experimental group. The control group received a standard diet and water, while the experimental group received a diet supplemented with 0.5% of the test substance. Figure 1 is a line graph showing the percentage of total catch versus the number of hauls for various fish species. The x-axis is labeled 'Number of hauls' and ranges from 0 to 10. The y-axis is labeled 'Percentage of total catch' and ranges from 0 to 100. The legend indicates: 1.0 = 100%, 0.5 = 50%, 0.25 = 25%, 0.125 = 12.5%, 0.0625 = 6.25%, 0.03125 = 3.125%, 0.015625 = 1.5625%, 0.0078125 = 0.78125%, 0.00390625 = 0.390625%, 0.001953125 = 0.1953125%, 0.0009765625 = 0.09765625%.

Concussion
The most common traumatic brain injury, this may result in a mild concussion, which may last for a few days, or a severe concussion, which may last for weeks or months. Concussion is caused by a blow to the head, a fall, or a car accident. Symptoms include headache, dizziness, nausea, and loss of consciousness. Treatment is usually supportive, with rest and pain relief. Severe concussions may require surgery to remove blood clots or to repair damaged tissue.
